Views of Ex-Governor Wise.

Generals Steedman and Fullerton were recently in Richmond, on a tour of observation -sent, it was understood, by the President. They were accompanied by a corps of reporters, one of whom, over the signature of "Russell' communicates to the New York World the particulars of certain interviews with leading citizens. We make an extract from his letter:

Ex-Governor Wise now came in and was presented to General Steedman, who expressed himself glad to have the opportunity of discovering the views of Mr. Wise on the condition of affairs in general, and the workings of the Freedmen's Bureau in particular.
"We knew," said Governor Wise, "just the size of the elephant you were getting by the freeing of the slave. Take Accomac County, for instance; we had, for thirty years before the war, been engaged in the emancipation of the blacks, and had about thirty-four hundred of them on our hands who could, by the use of the oyster tongs for two days obtain sufficient to last them the rest of the week, which they spent in frolic.

"If the State of Virginia had never owned a slave, she never could have been whipped.— There would have been no war, had there been no slaves. Take away the bayonet, and I will stake my life that the vote of the people of Virginia will be against slavery by a majority that would astonish you.

"The class that causes trouble now is the same as of old. The poor whites that we used as overseers, are the men. The negro despises them; still he will listen to them and buy their whiskey." Then with considerable emphasis the Governor remarked, "I tell you, General, the negro is an aristocrat. He can tell a gentleman; he knows him by instinct. Field hands I speak of not the more intelligent body servant, he is far above the animal that we used as an overseer at the cost of four times what free labor now costs us.

"I have respect for an intelligent negro.-Old Tom Griffin asked me to take a Brunswick stew with him on Saturday next. I shan't fail to do so, and do you suppose that I will not be treated like a gentleman? If you do you are wrong.

"The late demonstration, you may be sure, was not calculated to please us, and I do assure you that hardly a respectable darkey engaged in it. The greater portion of the negroes came from the country, some as far as thirty miles." With reference to the Bureau (Freedmen's) the Governor was disposed to think that it had been as well managed here as it could be by men unacquainted with the people and the

"True some of the younger men had been influenced by these same animals that we had spoken of before the Overseer, and the parsons that came along with the army had made trouble by telling the negroes what they never knew before, that is, that they had been shamefully abused; and it is to just these men that we are indebted for the length of time that it has taken to get the negroes at work again. The negroes should have superintendence; but why not men that understand the negro and the country better than any stranger possibly

"General Terry had the impression that the breaking out of the war with France would result in the going over of a large number of the men that composed the late Southern army to the flag of France. I told him that I would stake my life against any such movement.-The sight of the old flag was in itself a something that an American could not but feel. "My troops never carried the Confederate flag, it had too much white in it tor me. The State flag of Virginia were the colors that we used; and it made my blood boil to see the old flag arrayed against us. I felt that they were our colors, and the only colors, too, that an American could fight under with any heart.' With reference to the "Freedmen's" Court, Governor Wise was asked by General Steedman, what the result of the removal of the cases from that court to the civil courts would

The Governor thought favorable, saying that "the negroes have always had the same rights and protection that the whites have had, and perhaps even more." Then, too said the Governor, 'how many courts have you in the sixty four thousand square miles of land that Virginia contains. Negroes that live in remote sections cannot travel forty or fifty miles to settle a case that involves but a few dollars. The sooner these things can be removed, the sooner will things assume a prosperous and cheering condition. The Freedman's Bureau has its advantages, but it has the semblance of a military power kept over us, and this you know can hardly be pleasant.'

He gave an instance of rather novel justice that lately occurred in Accomac County, on the Eastern Shore. A negro that had been freed long years since and had lived on his old master's land and used it, now came before the Freedman's Court, over which a lieutenant of the Veterau Reserve Corps presided, and laid claims to this land .-The lieutenant gave as his decision:-That this land should belong to the negro and his wife during their life time, and no appeal should be made from this decision.

THE DEAD AT FREDERICKSBURG.—It is reported that an officer of the U. S. Army will soon be here charged with the duty of collecting the Federal dead, and interring them in one common cemetery. They are to be found in half the yards and gardens of town. Legs, arms, &c., lay about profusely for several days after Burnside's defeat at Marye's Heights. It has been surmised that the Fair Grounds have been seized by the Secretary of War for the purposes of the proposed Federal Monumental Association, but it is not often that great disasters are commemorated in that way. There are thousands of Federal soldiers all around the vicinity of the Fair Grounds, but we doubt if a solitary interment has been made in the grounds proper. - Fred. Herald.

The Boston Commercial has the following :-"There are several masters of vessels who generally run to this port from Cape Breton and the Provinces who cannot read or write, and far as money-making goes.

RE YOU AFFLICTED WITH A COUGH OR COLD? ARE YOU PREDISPOSED TO CONSUMP-

TION? Are the lives of your children in jeopardy from sudden and repeated attacks of Croup? If so purchase a box of BLADES' EUPHONIAL LUBRICATORS!

The people's most sure and effectual remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchtis, Diptheria and all pulmonary diseases.

The LUBRICATOR is a medicinal preparative of the Color of the C tion in the form of Lozenge, which of all modes is the most pleasant and convenient. They contain no deleterious ingredient, and are warranted to be always safe, even for the weakest and most sensitive stomach. In Croup they give imme-diate relief. For Coughs and Colds they are invaluable. For Catarrh, Asthma, and Bronchitis they have no equal in the market, (vide Certificates accompanying each box.) Diptheria, that dreaded and desolating disease, they control wonderfully and almost immediately. No Public Speaker, Singer or Teacher, should be without them, as they remove hoarseness and strengthen and clear the voice. Always use them in time, and if the symptoms are severe use very freely.
